

Visiting Faculty & Scholars Guidelines and Procedures

Introduction

Visiting Faculty and Scholars are distinguished individuals who participate in research and scholarship activities within the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College (MLFTC) at Arizona State University (ASU). These individuals are typically faculty or researchers on leave (e.g., sabbatical) from their home institutions and do not hold an academic appointment or employment with ASU. Appointments are conferred from one month to one academic year, with the option to renew for a second appointment. They are not ASU employees and do not receive a salary, although a small stipend is offered to Visiting Faculty. Individuals in these positions are expected to hold a doctorate, although consideration will be made for significant expertise in the field.

Eligibility and Benefits

Visiting Faculty are appointed through a call for applications released annually in which two applicants are chosen to reside within MLFTC, receiving a small stipend and limited benefits. Visiting Scholars are appointed through an unsolicited approach in which potential scholars contact MLFTC faculty to sponsor them; no financial assistance and no benefits are offered.

Visiting Faculty

The MLFTC releases a call for applications annually to fill two appointments. The call will identify the desired thematic or topical foci each year (e.g., policy, learning, literacies, technologies, teacher education). Themes are rotated every year in order to have a steady representation of all programs over time (e.g., Teacher Education, LLT, EPE, EdD). A designated percentage of appointments will be reserved for international scholars to enhance international visibility and engagement. These positions are for one academic year (mid-August to mid-May); although upon request a shorter term of one semester will be considered. Applications are submitted electronically to shandra.daniels@asu.edu. Complete applications are given to the Associate Dean of Academic Systems for review. Incomplete applications are not accepted.

Visiting Faculty are expected to actively engage in research and scholarship along with attending college/division events. They may also be asked to present a public lecture or course presentation.

Visiting Faculty who are appointed through the call for applications may receive a small stipend and should encourage their home institutions to match the amount to help fund their stay. Funding will need to be determined yearly, with the possibility of utilizing development funds. Since a stipend is being offered and not a salary, Visiting Faculty are not employees of ASU. Additional benefits offered are listed below:

- ASURITE ID
- Library privileges
- Computer access
- Email account
- Office space
- Incoming and (US only) outgoing faxes

Visiting Scholars

Individuals may seek Visiting Scholars status by contacting a MLFTC faculty member to secure sponsorship or a faculty member may recruit someone he or she is interested in working with. These positions can last from one month to one academic year, with the possibility of renewal. There can be no more than four Visiting Scholars per academic semester and a faculty member may be host for no more than two Visiting Scholars per semester. If there are substantial problems with a prior Visiting Scholar, a faculty member may not be able to host Visiting Scholars in the future. The application deadline is the last Friday in September for scholars arriving by the start of the spring semester and by last Friday in April for scholars arriving by the start of the fall semester. The Faculty Host will direct the applicant to submit an application to Shandra.daniels@asu.edu Applications will be reviewed by the Associate Dean of Academic Systems for approval. Incomplete applications are not accepted. Once an application is approved, an offer letter is sent to the Visiting Scholar.

Visiting Scholars may be doctoral students, faculty and other professionals who are directly sponsored by a MLFTC faculty host. Visiting Scholars are expected to actively engage in research and scholarship along with attending college/division events. They may also be asked to present a public lecture or course presentation.

Visiting Scholars do not receive any financial assistance or benefits. They will need to provide their own funding, either through their home institution, personal funds, or other outside funds such as grants. Accommodations will be made for office space, if available.

Application Requirements

All Visiting Faculty and Scholars applications are to include the materials listed below in order to be considered complete and ready for review:

- A Request for Visiting Scholar Appointment form
- Curriculum Vitae
- Recommendation letter from Teachers College faculty host
- Two professional reference letters
- Proof of funding (applicants in process of applying for funding are to provide name and criteria of institution or organization)

If accepted an Intellectual Property Agreement is required. The annual call for applications may require additional materials outside of this list, depending on the needs of the position.

J-1 Process for Exchange Visiting Scholars

To bring a perspective scholar to ASU as a J-1 exchange scholar:

Shandra Daniels forwards the signed offer letter to International Students and Scholars Center (ISSC) to initiate the process. The process time from ISSC can take up to 14 days to review and generate a DS-2019, for complete applications. When the application has been processed, a packet including the DS-2019 Form and instructions to the scholar for preparing for and applying for a visa appointment is provided to Shandra by ISSC for mailing to the scholar. This can take longer time and depending on the processing time at the scholar's home country consulate/embassy, it can usually take up to 2 months to obtain a visa. If the scholar is self-sponsored, a bank letter/statement is required to show sufficient funds of the duration for a J-1 exchange visitor. The minimum funding is $1,400 per month for the scholar, $400 for spouse, and $350 for each child 13 and older, $200 for a child up to 13 years of age.

 - Provide your own laptop, pc or software, and any other technological peripherals needed for work during your visit

Faculty Host Responsibilities

As the primary contact and liaison between the visiting scholar and the College, the faculty host will be responsible for the following tasks prior to, during and at the conclusion of their visit.

Prior to the Visit

- Prior to committing to be a faculty host, you must: 1) ensure that the visiting scholar's scholarship is aligned with the College's current goals, research trajectory, and their visit will enhance and/or be of benefit to the College community; 2) ensure that your calendar allows you to be physically present and not be on sabbatical or any other leave during their visit; 3) receive written approval from your Division Director to sponsor a visiting scholar; 4) designate a back-up host in case an illness or unforeseen circumstance prevents you from fulfilling your host responsibilities.
- Forward a letter to the visiting scholar confirming your commitment to be a faculty host and the how the visiting scholar's work/project will contribute to the College's mission and/or scholarship, and include the name of your back-up host. This letter will be included by the Visiting Scholar as part of their application materials.
- Be prepared to attest that the visiting scholar (J-1 Visa only) possesses sufficient proficiency in English to successfully participate in the program and function independently in daily life in the United States.
- Campus housing is not available for visiting scholar stays. The visiting scholar will have been provided the following links to assist them in securing housing prior to their arrival: <https://cfo.asu.edu/hr-relocation> <http://www.asu.edu/hr/documents/communityresources.pdf>
It is ultimately the responsibility of visiting scholar to secure their own housing. However, faculty hosts may wish to view the links as well and offer additional information or housing location tips they feel may be beneficial.
- Immediately notify _____ of any changes to the approved visit date or planned project.

During the Visit

- Pick-up and drop-off the visiting scholar at the airport or assist them in securing alternative means of ground transportation.
- Acclimate the visiting scholar to their new locale by 1) showing them around the ASU campus (library, meal venues) and the College; 2) helping them to settle into Tempe by showing them stores (e.g. grocery, laundry, drug stores) near their residence and locate transit options e.g. Orbit, Flash, Metrorail.
- Assist the visiting scholar in locating the ISSO office to turn in mandatory documents and in attending the required orientation, where they will receive their ASURITE id card.
- Due to the needs of the College, separate office space will not always be available for visiting scholars; faculty hosts will be expected to share office space when necessary.
- Arrange regular meetings with the visiting scholar to monitor progress of the proposed plan and associated goals related to research activities and to address any concerns or questions of the visitor.
- Develop an itinerary to share with other College faculty and the Division Director which may include: 1) requests for classrooms visits, 2) engaging in discussion with graduate students, 3) presenting guest lectures in classes.
- Coordinate a visiting scholar colloquium which included ensuring an audience comprised of faculty and/or graduate students is in attendance and working with _____ to reserve a room and to create an announcement.
- Facilitate connecting with secondary mentors to broaden opportunities in research, further collaborative efforts, and networking.
- Ensure that visiting scholar attends division, college, program and University events (i.e., lectures, seminars) for networking purposes and career/professional development.

Post-Visit

- Assist in the preparation and submission of a progress report at the end of the first semester and a final report at the end of the year. For visits shorter than one semester, one final report will be submitted at the end of visit.
- If there are substantial problems with a prior Visiting Scholar, a faculty member may not be able to host Visiting Scholars in the future.
